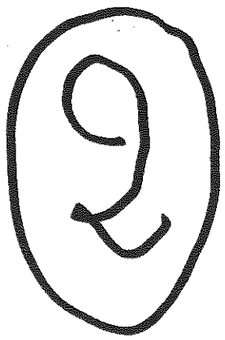
A long time ago in the savannah, there lived a very arrogant jaguar.
He liked to scare other animals.
But one day, a scorpion wanted to set a trap for him to take revenge. He hid in a hole and waited for the jaguar to sting him.



He had to wait a long time. But one day, the jaguar was chasing a zebra and put its paw in the hole. He was very hurt.

The jaguar could no longer run very fast.
The other animals were no longer afraid of him.
He was sad and walked for a long time in the savannah before finding an idea.

He went to an eagle and asked it for help.
The eagle accepted and taught him to see very far.
The jaguar could therefore avoid the traps.
